Another Sudden Death. - On Friday last Mr. P. Hollihan residing in Wheatfield twp., near the Penn twp. line, while sitting at the dinner table fell from his chair and almost instantly expired. Our informant says that a couple of years since Mr. H. had a paralytic stroke, and it is probable that another stroke was the cause of his

Still Another Sudden Death. - On Wednesday last, a death occurred at the sale of the personal property of the estate of Robert Orr, deceased, in Saville township. Mr. Andrew Kell, of Tyrone twp., was present apparently in good health. Near the close of the sale he went into the house and took up a chair which he moved to sit down in, when he suddenly fell over, insensible. He was at once given aid, but he did not recover his consciousness and in a few minutes his heart ceased to beat. His body was moved to the residence of his son, Peter, with whom he resided. Mr. Kell was a well-known and highly respected citizen, and was aged 72 years.

A Narrow Escape.-Mr. John Snyder and wife, residing near Liverpool, came near death from the effects of coal gas on Monday night of last week. A neighbor noticing that no one was astir till a late hour on Tuesday morning visited the premises and found the couple insensible from the gas. Fresh air and other means were at once used for their recovery which proved successil. A little more delay would have proved fatal.

A Young Lady Shot .- On Saturday last a young lady, named Wright aged about 16 years, residing in Greenwood twp., was accidentally shot by a man named John Buchanan. Mr. Buchanan fired a rifle at a dog, and did not see the lady when he fired the gun. The bullet entered under her arm and out at the shoulder blade, the ball passing through and lodging in her shawl. The wound is not thought dangerous, and the lady is getting along as well as could be expected.

A Broken Bone.-On Monday of last week, Mrs. Elizabeth Burd, who resides with her son-in-law, Mr. George Bistline, in Centre twp., had a bad accident. The old lady is blind and quite feeble, and in moving from her chair and feeling around with her cane she became light-headed and fell. She was helped up, and it was thought no injury had happened, but during the night she had such pain that Dr. Strickler was sent for on Tuesday, when an examination showed that she had fractured her thigh. The fracture was adjusted and the old lady on Sunday was resting easy with a prospect of recovery.

Mail Wreck .- Wednesday evening last just as the mail messenger on Fast Line west threw off the mail pouch at this point, the momentum of the train drew the pouch back under the wheels. The pouch became entangled among the running gears of the car, and was not dropped until the train reached a point above Cook's saw mill, about a quarter of a mile. The pouch was cut up considerably, and the mail matter scattered promiscously along the road. A box of envelopes belonging to the Newport Deposit Bank, was pretty badly used up .-It is thought there was no mail matter lost.-Newport Ledger.

Fearful Accident from Coasting.-The Mifflintown Democrat and Register says: On Tuesday morning Herman, a twelve year-old son of John Howe, of this place met with a fearful accident .-He went to the hills north-west of town, and was coasting on the crust of the snow-in that dangerous manner that so many of our boys will persist in doing by laying down on the sled and running head foremost. He was thrown from the sled, his forehead and face striking the strong, heavy and sharp crust of the enow. His forehead was laid open to bone for six or more inches, besides some four or five other large and deep gashes in his head and face. Before being dressed his face and head presented a frightful appearance, the gash in it remaining open for the space of an inch or more down to the bone. He seems at this writing to be doing well.

A Comical Trial took place in the Court room on Friday last before Jos. S. Smith, Esq. Jacob Boggs had rented a property of John D. Carberry who refusing to accept the two names first brought as bail (though either name was good security) was finally given a bond signed by over forty persons. Boggs failed to pay and suit was brought against all the bondsmen for the bill and costs, the total being about $25. Over twenty of them appeared and as judgment was against them an assessment of a little over a dollar each was made and the judgment satisfied. Considerable feeling existed against Carberry for his course in the matter and some hard language was indulged in. It would seem to be a poor investment to pay a lawyer $5 to collect a bill of $5.07 which we learn was the original amount, the balance of the claim being constables feen, etc.

The Millerstown Bridge.-Application has been made to the Court to have this bridge taken by the Commissioners and made a free bridge under the act of May 8, 1876, P. L. 131. In accordance with this application viewers were appointed who made the following curious report:

"Upon coming together on the 23d of Dec., 1880, we unanimously agree that the time is not quite come for the county take said bridge, for the following reasons, viz:

"The bridge is in good order and paying the stockholders nicely, and they are, with a small exception, satisfied, and the people who are directly interested in said bridge, do not feel that they are oppressed, because they have always borne the burden of toll willingly, a small minority excepted, therefore, we believe the movement to be a little premature."

This report does not seem to answer the requirements of the appointment.— No one supposed that any of the stockholders were not satisfied, and the law was not intended for their relief. Therefore we are at a loss to know why the viewers should say that " the stockholders with small exceptions are satisfied," for no one supposes they wanted a change. But why the "small excep-tion" should be unhappy with stock paying 221 per cent, (as was shown to be the case) is what puzzles us. Perhaps they fear the state may claim the earnings in excess of six per cent on the stock which amount is we think all the bridge can legally collect in tolls without paying the excess to the State. The papers in the case have not been acted upon by the court, and it is probably the question will be kept before the people, for a while yet. The day has gone by when travel should be impeded by toll gates and toll bridges in passing from one place to another in the same State, and where such obstacles to travel are tolerated, the tolls should be kept at the lowest possible point, as it is evident that the six per proviso in the law meant they should be.

A Lucky Farmer .- As John G. Unger, a farmer of Lower Paxton township, was walking down Market street at noon yesterday, he was joined by two men who after some conversation took occasion to remark that they were joint owners of a lottery from which the use of a little money was sure to extract a very large sum. Mr. Unger, as willing as most people are to walk into a fortune consented to investigate this easy road to wealth and went with the men to a room over Edward's saloon, in the post office building. Here he was shown a table covered with maps and other portentous looking papers and instructed to draw a bit of pasteboard form a box containing a quantity of numbered slips .-He did so and was surprised as well as delighted to be told that he had drawn the $1,000 prize. The money would be his upon the payment of $500. Mr. Unger readily agreed to pay the money and accompanied by one of the alleged lottery dealers went to a bank to procure the amount. He incidentally told the cashier the use he proposed to make of the sum, and when that suspicious official made some pertinent inquiries the farmer's companion suddenly had business in another locality. The farmer and the cashier returned to the lottery room and found the other man. The cashier after refusing to try his luck at drawing from the wonderful box, enlightened the farmer upon the character of the game and started for the police .-When he returned with the officers of the law the room was vacant and no clue to the swindlers has as yet been obtained. They had hired the room for two days, representing themselves to the proprietor as book agents .- Patriot of the 18th inst.

Juniata County .- We copy the following from the Juniata county papers of last week :

On Friday Mrs. Margaret McMeen, who resides with her son Robert, tripped on an oil cloth and fell, injuring herself so seriously that she is now lying in a helpless condition. She is 80 years old.

Cumberland County .- We copy the following from the Cumberland papers of last week:

The wife of Mr. John Enck, residing in Silver Spring township, near Hick-orytown fell dead on Tuesday morning. The cause was supposed to be heart disease. This sad event has cast a gloom the entire neighborhood. The over the entire neighborhood. The bereaved family have the sympathy of the entire community.

About nine o'clock, on Sunday morning, whilst Mrs. Wilson Lamison, who resides at Sharpley's Row, West North street, was engaged in dressing her youngest daughter, the little child fell dead in its sister's arms. Dr. Hemminger was immediately summoned, but the vital spark had fled almost instantly. The child was fifteen months old, and just beginning to walk and prattle.

On Wednesday afternoon, while the last rites were being paid to the body of Jacob Myers, at Spring Hill Cemetery, a constable served a warrant on one of the persons in attendance at the funeral. This valiant officer of the law halls from Chambershurg and his page is Hutton. Chambersburg, and his name is Hutton.
As a matter of course, all was confusion at the grave, and the party arrested started off with the officer to the nearest justice of the peace to enter bail, and it was only then known that this cute Chambersburg constable had been acting without authority, having neglected to have his warrant endorsed. There was no occasion for the arrest at the time and place, for the young man against whom the accusation was made, had no notion of leaving for parts unknown until at least after the funeral cortege had left the cemetery grounds.

It is just ten years ago since Chas. S. Segelbaum of the Mammoth Dry Goods House, of Harrisburg, conceived the idea that Harrisburg and Central Pennsylvania should have a first class dry goods house. We are glad to say that the people of Harrisburg and central Pennsylvania are very grateful in having such a pleasant first class house to supply their wants. The building is centrally located directly opposite the court house, on a corner, has a splendid light, is four stories high, with very high light, is four stories high, with very high ceilings, and is elegantly fitted up. You will find there about 1400 feet of Dry Goods, Notions, Cloths, Cassimeres, Shawis, Dolmans, Coats, Lace Curtins, in fact everything pertaining to a first class dry goods house. It will be a pleasure to those that visit Harrisburg to stop in and look through this im-

George Elict's Romola.

A timely interest is given, by the deafh of the author, to the new edition of her master-piece, "Romola," just issued by the American Book Exchange, New York. It shows her work at its best and strongest, and at the same time gives the reader the opportunity to acquire a lasting familiarity with the scenes and society of medieval Italy. It is one of the few really great historical novels of the world. It is issued in handy and beautiful form, extra cioth binding, simple but rare elegance and cloth binding, simple but rare elegance and taste in design, and like the other issues of the "Literary Revolution" its cost is almost nominal, viz: 35 cents. It is one of a series intended to form a library of classic fiction, which will include one representative and characteristic work of each of the great authors who have won lasting fame in the realm of fiction. Life is too short and too full of work to permit the reading of all that is beautiful and valuable in these creations of the imagination, but even-very busy people can find time tion, but even-very busy people can find time to read one book by each of the score of authors who have won immortal fame and place in the affections of the people. Not to be acquainted with them is to be ignorant of be acquainted with them is to be ignorant of much that is important and most interesting in the history of nations and of men. Not to possess them is to be deprived of most fruitful and profitable sources of enjoyment. Among those issued or nearly ready are, Scott's "Ivan-hoe," Bulwer's "Pompeli," Irving's "Knick-erbocker," Cooper's "Mobicans," "Tom Brown at Rugby," "Adventures of Don Quixote" and "Uarda," a Romance of Ancient Egypt." Tribute of Respect.

At a meeting of the committee appointed by the Sabbath School of the Mt. Zion Lutheran church, of Spring twp., Perry county, Fa., the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

WHEMPAS, It has pleased Almighty God in His all, wise providence to call from our midst, in the bloom of youth, our beloved teacher and coworker. Thomas R. Sweeger, and, whereas, we believe that happy are they that die in the Lord, it is meet that we pay this last tribute to the dead, therefore, be it

Resolved, That while we deeply mourn the loss of one so dear and promising, yet we bow humbly to the will of Him, who doeth all things well, believing our loss to be his eternal gain.

Resolved, That our Master in making up His jewels, has plucked a gem which will long be remembered by the Sabbath School. Church and community in which he resided, and by which He has shown us that the most lovely flower blooms but to die.

Resolved, That by this another dispensation of Providence, we are reminded of the uncertainty of life, and the necessity of preparing to meet him, and all loved ones who have gone before, in that better land.

Resolved, That this Sabbath School tenders its heartfelt sympathy to the family and friends of deceased, and we pray that He. "Who hath power to soothe every sorrow and heal every wound," may sustain them in their time of trial and bereavement, so that they may realize that in love He calls our dear ones home.

Resolved, That copy of these resolutions be presented to the bereaved family, that they be inserted in the minutes of our Sunday School, and that they be sent for publication to the leading papers of this county.
